

SERVICES FOR EMPLOYERS

BEST collaborates with public and private employers to prevent sex trafficking. BEST offers a variety of services and resources that empower employers to foster a workplace culture that protects the brand and inspires employee engagement.

BEST PRACTICES

Access free BEST Practices that empower employers to prevent sex trafficking by:

- Changing internal workplace policies and company culture
- Employing survivors and persons at risk
- Supporting non-profit partners

SELF-ASSESSMENT

Take BEST's free online assessment to determine how your organization can improve your sex trafficking prevention efforts.

TRAINING

Protect your organization and inspire your employees by training them to prevent exploitation. BEST offers corporate training packages that can be provided online, in person, or customized for your organization.

CONSULTING

BEST offers experts who can help your company:

- Create a comprehensive strategy
- Implement policies and internal communications
- Customize employee training
- Publicize your leadership

COLLABORATION

Join BEST's employers alliance and take a stand with other employers across the country to drive traffickers out of business.

"We support thousands of business travelers around the world. Thanks to BEST's online training courses, our employees are even better equipped in our efforts to identify signs of sex trafficking across the globe and help victims get the assistance they need."

- Natalie Volin Lehr, Director of Corporate Affairs for Carlson Wagonlit Travel

"BEST provided expertise so that our Port could create a comprehensive strategy to address human trafficking. Our entire Port community is excited about the crucial role our organization will play to help reduce human trafficking through our facilities and throughout our region."

- Courtney Gregoire, Port of Seattle Commission President